

Contents

List of Illustrations	viii
Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	1
Chapter
1. From Mutual Education to Celebrity Entertainment	13
2. Modeling an Ideal in Josiah Holbrook's Family Lyceum , 1832–1833	49
3. Judging Popular Lectures in Milwaukee, 1854–1857	77
4. Frederick Douglass as Lyceum Lecturer, 1850s–1870s	113
5. Anna Dickinson's "Whited Sepulchres," 1869–1870	143
6. "A Living Shuttle"	173
Appendix
1. Lyceum Timeline	191
2. Josiah Holbrook's Plan for Mutual-Education Societies, 1826	193
3. The New York Tribune's List of Lyceum Lecturers, 1859–1860	197
4. Lectures Sponsored by the Young Men's Association of the City of Milwaukee, December 1854–March 1857	203
5. "The Races," by Frederick Douglass	207
6. "Whited Sepulchres," by Anna Dickinson	221
7. "Mormonism," by Anna Dickinson	239
8. Selections from Anna Dickinson's Letters Home, Summer 1869	251
Notes	257
Bibliography	327
Index	351