Volume VII: American Rhetoric in the New Deal Era, 1932-1945

Edited by Thomas W. Benson
 Some historians use New Deal to designate the intense period of domestic reform legislation of the first Franklin Roosevelt administration, 1933-37. Others confine discussion of the era to the legislation of 1933, and identify another wave of legislation in 1935 as a Second New Deal. Essays in this book focus on the prewar period, with glimpses that look forward to the rhetoric of the approach to and engagement in World War II. Available in November, 2006. Notes, references, index. Library binding, 512 pp., 0-87013-767-0 (978-0-87013-767-9), $189.00

Angelina Grimké
 Rhetoric, Identity, and the Radical Imagination

Stephen H. Browne

Abolitionist, women's rights activist, and social reformer Angelina Grimké (1805-79) was among the first women in American history to seize the public stage in pursuit of radical social reform: "I will lift up my voice like a trumpet," she proclaimed. Grimké crossed the wires of race, gender, and power, and produced explosions that lit up the world of antebellum reform. Rhetoric and Public Affairs Series. Notes, bibliography, index. Cloth, 224 pp., 0-87013-530-9, $50.00 Paper, 224 pp., 0-87013-542-2, $24.95

Bending Spines
The Propagandas of Nazi Germany and the German Democratic Republic

Randall L. Bytwerk

Bending Spines examines the full range of persuasive techniques used by Nazi Germany and the German Democratic Republic, concluding that both systems failed in part because they expected more of their propaganda than it was able to deliver. Rhetoric & Public Affairs Series. Bibliography, Index.

Cloth, 228 pp., 0-87013-709-3, $59.95
Paper, 228 pp., 0-87013-710-7, $24.95

Christianity and the Mass Media in America
Toward a Democratic Accommodation

Quentin J. Schultze

In the United States, the major disputes between religion and the media usually have involved Christian churches or parachurch ministries, on the one hand, and so-called secular media, on the other. Schultze demonstrates how religion and the media in America have borrowed each other's rhetoric. In the process, they have also helped to keep each other honest, pointing out respective foibles and pretensions. Rhetoric & Public Affairs Series. Index, bibliography.

Cloth, 512 pp., 0-87013-696-8, $84.95
Paper, 512 pp., 0-87013-774-3, $19.95

Cold War Rhetoric
Strategy, Metaphor, and Ideology

Martin J. Medhurst, Robert L. Ivie, Robert L. Scott, Philip Wander

Cold War Rhetoric is the first book in over twenty years to bring a sustained rhetorical critique to bear on central texts of the Cold War, including speeches by Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy, the Murrow-McCarthy confrontation on CBS, the speeches and writings of peace advocates, and the recurring theme of unAmericanism as it has been expressed in various media throughout the Cold War years. Illustrations, notes, bibliography, index.

Paper, 272 pp., 0-88629-442-6, $22.95

Darwinism, Design, & Public Education

John Angus Campbell, Stephen C. Meyer

From the Scopes Trial in 1925 through the action of the Kansas board of education, the teaching of evolution in public schools has been a flashpoint in American education. Although its implications are not yet fully evident, the advent of a modern scientific theory of intelligent design (ID), and a scholarly research community advancing this theory (the ID movement) has reenergized and is now redefining the character of this controversy. Darwinism, Design, and Public Education examines ID as a science, a philosophy, and a movement for educational reform. Rhetoric & Public Affairs Series.

Metaphorical World Politics

Edited by Francis A. Beer, Christ'l De Landtsheer

Scholars usually study world politics embedded in so-called "facts." Metaphorical World Politics shows that facts are misleading in their compactness, are often meaningless, that metaphors in contrast are energetic processors of meaning, and that facts in world politics are nothing more than weak emulsions of metaphor. Rhetoric & Public Affairs Series. Charts, index. Paper, 288 pp., 0-87013-726-3, $29.95

Old Hopes for a New Place
The Legacy of Arend D. Lubbers at Grand Valley State University

Edited by Stephen Rowe

"I have known... Lubbers since my days in Congress. A remarkable story of development and excellence has unfolded in my own town...Lubbers's speeches capture its essence. Lubbers is clear, accessible, enjoyable — and very helpful in his perspective on education and public life. I heartily recommend this book!"

The Political Style of Conspiracy
Chase, Sumner, and Lincoln

Michael William Pfau

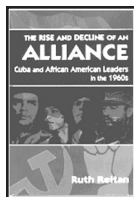

By examining their mainstream texts, Pfau reveals that, in addition to the "paranoid style" of conspiracy rhetoric that inhabits the margins of political life, Lincoln, Chase, and Sumner also engaged in a distinctive form of conspiracy rhetoric that is often found at the center of mainstream American society and politics. Rhetoric & Public Affairs Series. Bibliography, index.
Cloth, 240 pp., 0-87013-760-3, $59.95

The Reconstruction Desegregation Debate
The Policies of Equality and the Rhetoric of Place, 1870-1875

Kirt H. Wilson

In the decade following the Civil War, two questions dominated political debate: to what degree were African Americans "equal" to white Americans, and how should this equality be implemented in law? Wilson examines Reconstruction's desegregation debate to explain how it represented an important movement in the evolution of U.S. race relations. Rhetoric & Public Affairs Series.
